Conclusion

- ▶ The so-called inflectional endings of adjectives in Japanese are really a suppletive and highly restricted copula: 'adjectival copula'.
- ▶ Its main forms exhibit an alternation k- ~ s-.
- ▶ The pre-OJ (adjectival) copula(s) in k- ~ s- is also reflected in a number of other grammatical morphemes, most closely the past tense markers (-ki/-si/-kyeba/-kyem-/kyeku and -kyer-) and the adverbial formant *-su (~ -ku).
